

PRESBYTERIAN YOUTH VICTORIA

REGIONAL CAMP JOB DESCRIPTION

Camp Speaker

Requirements For Role

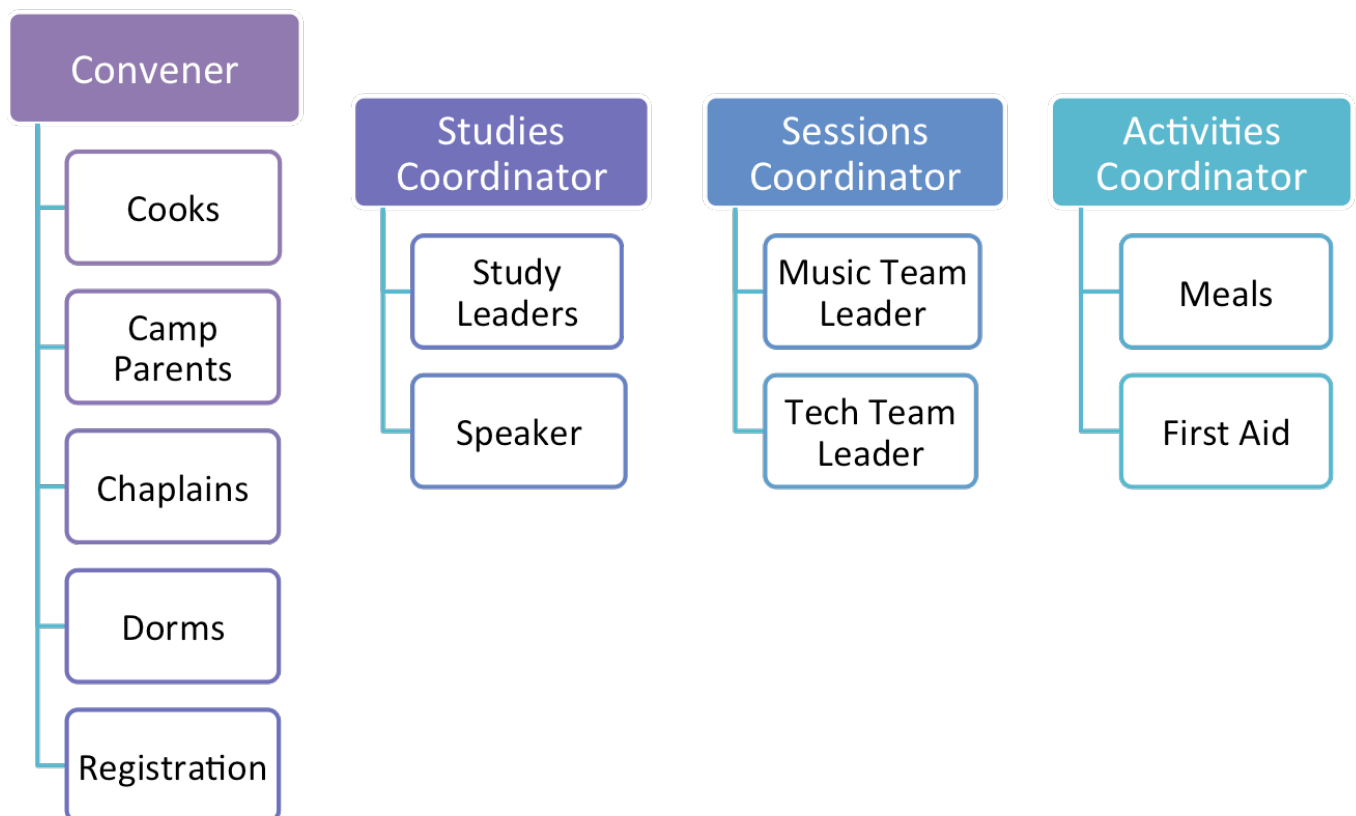

Be approved by the Christian Education and Nurture Committee as a speaker on PYV camps and events.

Aims of Role

- Teach the Bible faithfully and truthfully to those at camp, showing how the Bible is relevant to young people (Regional camper ages are between 12 to end of Year 12).
- Help the study leaders understand the main aim of each talk and small group study.
- Model the Christian life to the campers and leaders, showing them in the way you act and speak both the struggles and joys of being Christ-like.
- Get involved in all aspects of camp so as to build relationships with campers and leaders at meal times, activities and free time.

Reporting Structure

As Speaker you report and are accountable to the Study Coordinator.

Camp Speaker

Responsibilities of your Role

- Giving talks (either 3 or 4) on camp.
- Providing small group studies to expand on the talks.
- Discussing any visual aids needed to enhance your talks with the Study Coordinator and Tech Team Leader.
- Coming to the training day, where you will explain the talks and studies to the Study Group Leaders before camp.
- Providing the talk outline notes for the camp booklet so that booklets can be printed.
- Assisting the Study Coordinator in the development of the quiet times for camp.
- Coming to leaders' meetings (once a day on camp) where you can reiterate the main point the day and answer any questions study group leaders have regarding the studies or talks.
- Evaluating this job description with modifications and suggestions.

For Your Information

We encourage you to bring your wife and any young children you have to camp. PYV will pay for you and your family's camp fees. Any of your children who are in the age bracket for this camp who wish to come as campers and enjoy all the activities must pay the regular camp fees.

Regional camps are intended to equip young Christians to live out their faith in contemporary society. Please keep this in mind as you prepare the talks and studies.

Please make sure you are familiar with PYV's policies, which are available at pyv.org.au/resources/pyv-policies.

What to do if a child discloses something to you:

PYV Camps are places where it is always possible that we will hear something from a camper that will require us to act. Here are some basic guidelines for you to follow.

- Never promise to keep something a secret. You can, however, assure a camper you will not pass anything on unless necessary.
- Listen non-judgementally to what is being said. Assume that what you are hearing is true.
- Make sure the camper is safe before making a report. This might mean asking other leaders to sit with the camper, or making sure they are with a group of campers. Or, if necessary, taking them to first aid.
- As soon as possible, find either the CENC Rep (often YMD Brian Harvey) or Camp Convener. You will be handed either a paper-form or a laptop. Please complete the appropriate forms as carefully and completely as possible.
- From there, the CENC Rep will discuss with the Safe Church Unit the appropriate course of action.

We would also remind you that such a disclosure should be kept confidential. The only person you might discuss this with is the CENC Representative and the Camp Convener. Where appropriate, you might inform a study leader or dorm leader that something has been disclosed. No details need to be given, but this can help those leaders understand why that camper might seem a little withdrawn.

Training For Camp

Leading on a PYV camp requires a leader to attend that camp's relevant training day. Training occurs in local churches throughout Victoria. The training day will be a full day of camp specific training and team building, and as such all leaders are required to attend.

Leaders who will be unable to make training day will be informed that they will be placed on an emergency leader list, and will be leading if someone pulls out or if camper numbers are higher than planned. It is at the Camp Convenor's discretion only for someone to lead on a camp without attending the relevant training day. Camp Convenors will be required to inform the PYV Council of the reasoning behind this should it occur.
